The first project was so stretched out, I think it could have gone a lot quicker and then we could have had more time for the following projects.

I liked this class but it would of been better if you graded us more on our presentation rather than just the PowerPoint

This was Kris' first time teaching the course, and I appreciate the time and effort he put into making the class engaging and challenging in his own way. He was clearly passionate about the subject and even shared some of his work from the library as examples, which helped us see real-life applications of Interaction Design. He also made sure to give detailed feedback on every assignment, both in-person during critiques and online on Canvas with comments and rubrics.

If you have this class again, don't make the A project take 6 weeks, it was so unnecessary and we could have way more time for the other more advanced projects. Combine it into like 2-3 weeks instead. Also need to provide a bit more criticism, but it was a very easy class for me to take.

Thank you for grading all the projects in a timely manner. And being enthusiastic and kind with your crits. However, you could crit harder on the art majors.

Essay Responses for ART307010 for 2018 Fall (2188)

Question ID: 2819

What was the most interesting or important assignment or aspect of this course and why is this a benefit to you?

Responses (6 of 18)

The prototyping was definitely the most interesting aspect of this course for me.

Learning sketch and having the creativity to make the last project was great to learn

The 'App Design' was the most challenging, and therefore important, assignment of the course. We were required to build a fully working mobile application prototype and a style guide with Sketch, which many people in the Interaction Design industry make use of. Through the assignment, I was able to grasp the importance of details in an app prototype and think about app structures in greater detail.

I really liked learning Sketch because I have never used it before. I can now say I know Sketch from being part of this course.

It was interesting to focus on thinking about designing your apps and websites with the users in mind.

Using Sketch definitely opened my eyes to another way of designing. I have definitely become more interested in web development, and really grown as an artist.

If there were aspects of this course you would change to improve the course, please describe what these changes would be.

Responses (6 of 18)

I think this course could move a little quicker, overall I enjoyed this course!

The second project was confusing to me

I think some of the assignments did feel repetitive ('App Design' and 'Interface Design'). If they were combined into one big assignment with multiple parts, it would've also worked well.

Registration wise, make more seats for this class for the Interactive Media minors. It was such a hassle to get into and I got in last second. If this is going to be a required class, make a separate class so others don't get locked out of registering and get super stressed out. Class wise, shortening the beginning with the research from 6 weeks to 2-3 weeks will be more beneficial for the later projects and get more time.

I don't understand why we have to take this class. I've already taken Core Interaction which was essentially the same class but better cause it had coding. I liked that we got to design an app in this class. I don't understand why we had to present every week it was extremely boring and sorta a waste. I think each project should have one final presentation/crit. I also think that each of the three projects did not need to be stretched out as long as they were. I could've completed all three projects in one month. Also the textbook was dumb so I returned it.
